Topics

This notebook is a gift to you.

It was made through conversations over cups of tea.

We have left space for you to join the conversation, with your thoughts, ideas and responses. Inside you will find some of the things we have learned, some of the activities we have done together and some of the things we have shared. It's your notebook to use how you like.

During the Spring / Summer of 2021 a series of conversations with participants from Coventry Refugee and Migrant Centre and Warwickshire County Council's Syrian Vulnerable Persons Resettlement Scheme, have slowly created this notebook. Together we have made tea, created maps of our local amenities, talked with a careers advisor, connected our memories of smell, and explored our cooking methods and ingredients. We have talked about our families, shared our experiences and helped one another to understand the world around us a little bit better.

With love Noura, Reem, S, S, Amelia, Helen

An English Cream Tea

An English Cream Tea originates from the south of England in Cornwall and Devon.

People argue about whether the jam is put on the scone first followed by the cream, or the cream is put on first followed by the jam. Do you think it makes a difference?

Where is my nearest doctor?

Type your postcode in a search engine to find a list of doctor's near you. Or if you need support ask a support worker, friend or neighbour to do this for you.

Doctor

How do I register with a doctor?

You will need to collect a 'new patient registration form' called a GMS1 form, from your local doctor's practice.

Or you can download the form at: www.gov.uk/government/publications/gms1

Write down the name, address and telephone number of your doctor's practice.

A doctor's practice is often called a G.P practice, and people often refer to the doctor as the G.P. G.P standards for general practitioner.

Where is my nearest dentist?

Dentists don't have catchment areas meaning you can use any dentist that is convenient to your home, work, travel etc.

Sometimes you will find a dentist by walking past one, make a note of their phone number and call them to see if they are accepting patients.

You can search for a local NHS dentist by visiting https://www.nhs.uk/service-search/find-a-dentist

There may be a waiting list to join your local dentist.

How do I register with a dentist?

When you find a dentist you will be asked to complete a registration form. This is so the practice can add you to their patient database. It does not however guarantee you will be offered an appointment. If you are struggling to find a dentist call NHS England's Customer Contact Centre on 0300 311 2233. www.nhs.uk/nhs-services/dentists/how-to-find-an-nhs-dentist/

What do I do if I need to see a dentist urgently?

Your local dentist may offer emergency appointments, call them first. They will be able to advise you if they can help. You can call 111. They will connect you to an emergency dentist.

Do I have to pay for dental treatment?

Many dentists in the UK are private, that means you do have to pay for treatment. You might be entitled to NHS treatment. Depending on what support you are entitled to your treatment might be free. Otherwise treatments on the NHS range from £23.80-£282.80 depending on the work you need. Dentist

Career Apprenticeship

What is an apprenticeship?

An apprenticeship is a job where you work and learn at the same time. As an employee you will be paid, have a contract and benefits such as holiday leave. The learning you undertake on the apprenticeship will mean you have new skills and qualifications for your career path. Depending on your chosen apprenticeship it can take one to six years and can give you qualifications that are equivalent to a GCSE up to degree level.

How do I qualify?

- You need to be:
- Over the age of 16
- Not in full time education
- Live in England

Some apprenticeships may need you to have a GCSE in English or Math, and some apprenticeships will give you in-work support to achieve this.

You can undertake an apprenticeship if you want to change careers, or if you are just starting out in your new work life. Apprenticeships are available in lots of different career paths from agriculture and engineering to health and care. Visit www.apprenticeships.gov.uk for more information.

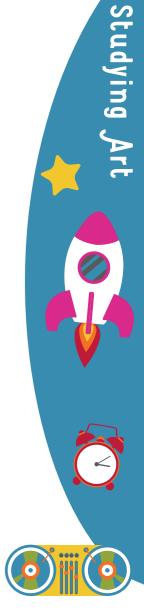

What apprenticeship would you like to do and why?

What will it be like to study art in the future?

Think about what you might use to make art, what you might make, and where you will share your art.

Is it different to how we make and study art now? What does a future with art look like? What does a future without art look like?

Childcare can involve working with children of all ages, from babies and toddlers to older preschool children. You might start your career as a nursery assistant without any qualifications, but training will allow you to progress and become a qualified nursery worker. From there, you might be able to progress into supervisory and managerial roles.

You will need to undertake a disclosure and barring service (DBS) check, this checks for a criminal record and to see if you pose harm to others.

Gaining experience in a volunteering capacity can be really useful, such as with local sports clubs or play schemes.

Nursery Worker

(Also relevant for Nursery Assistant, Early Years Educator, Preschool Assistant, Playgroup Assistant, Childcare Worker)

Working with children up to 5 years to develop and learn in a safe and supportive setting

You can get into this job through:

- a college course
- an apprenticeship
- working towards this role
- volunteering
- applying directly

College Courses

You can take a college course before looking for work in a nursery. Courses include;

- · Level 2 Certificate in Childcare and Education
- Level 3 Diploma in Early Years Education and Care
  Early Years Educator
- T Level in Education and Childcare

Entry Requirements

- 2 or more GCSEs at grades 9 to 3 (A* to D), or equivalent, for a level 2 course
- 4 or 5 GCSEs at grades 9 to 4 (A* to C), or equivalent, for a level 3 course
- 4 or 5 GCSEs at grades 9 to 4 (A* to C), or equivalent, including English and maths for a T level

You might also consider becoming a Teaching Assistant who play an important role in supporting learning activities in schools and nurseries. This is a similar pathway to a Nursery Worker.

How do I become a dentist?

To qualify as a dentist you must complete five years training for a degree at university. You will spend much of the five years learning practical skills as well as attending academic lectures and seminars. You will get experience of a range of hospital and community clinics where you will treat patients under close supervision.

Dentistry pathway

Five GCSEs (A-C), including English, maths and science subjects

Three A levels, usually at grades ranging from AAA to ABB, including chemistry and biology

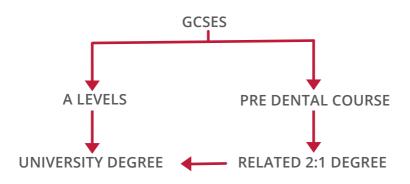

Some dental schools offer a one-year pre-dental course for those who don't have the required A-levels or equivalent.

If you have a 2:1 or higher degree, that included biology or chemistry, you may be able to do an accelerated four-year dental course.

University Dentistry Course

Some facts

- There is intense competition for places at dental schools
- You could be asked to take the University Clinical Aptitude Test (UCAT) or BioMedical Admissions Test (BMAT) They test the skills you'll need on the course.
- Pre-entry dentistry experience isn't essential, but a few weeks of related work experience and work shadowing will indicate your motivation for the work.
- It's a good idea to become a student member of the British Dental Association (BDA). You'll get access to its journal, student magazine, dental library and e-books. It also provides a support service and careers and interview advice

Your local college will have a careers advice or careers guidance department. This is where you can find out information about the career that you are interested in. Or you can find out more about your career options.

Although the careers guidance department is aimed at the college's current and potential students, it is open to anyone wanting to find out more about options for themselves or their children/dependents.

They can help you decide which course is right for you, provide tips for job searching, information about applying to University, explaining the UCAS process, and explain about student finance, and much more.

- Where is my local college?
- What are their contact details?

What isolation feels like to me

During the coronavirus pandemic, we have all had to adapt to different routines. This might include seeing friends and family less, being stuck inside more, not attending work or education as much as normal. How does this make you feel?

You can draw or write about your feelings.

Seasonal Affective Disorder (SAD)

What is it: A type of depression that changes with the seasons, by following a pattern. For example, noticing yourself becoming unhappy in the winter and feeling positive in the spring and summer.

What causes it: It's not totally understood why it happens, but it is thought to be associated with the lack of sunlight during winter. This affects a part of the brain called the hypothalamus, from working properly.

What can I do: If you think you have Seasonal Affective Disorder at any point in the year, please contact your GP, they can offer you different options. There are also some things you can do at home. You can try to get as much natural light as possible, by going outside or sitting near a window. You can also buy light boxes that simulate natural light and can be placed near you.
